DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to communication: Amendment, filed on 06/2/2006.
This action is made final.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 5-20 and 26-31, are allowed over the prior art of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-2, and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bowman Amuah, US# 6,438,594 B1, in view of Freeman et al., US# 2001/0049717 A1, and further in view of Ambrose et al., US# 2002/0065879 A1.

As per claims 1-2, Bowman-Amuah teaches "a source subsystem" (see col. 49, lines 34-59 and col. 52, lines 56-59) "a target subsystem, wherein the source node and the target node are communicatively" (see col. 53, lines 15-26) "a repository subsystem" (see col. 56, lines 26-35). Bowman-Amuah does not explicitly teach "wherein the repository subsystem is external to each of the source subsystem and the target subsystem . . . data between the repository subsystem . . .". Freeman et al. teaches "wherein the repository subsystem is external to each of the source subsystem and the target subsystem . . . data between the repository subsystem . . .” (see paragraphs [0301]-[303], [0285] and [0374]). It would have been obvious at the time of the invention for one of ordinary skill in the art to have combined the teachings of Bowman-Amuah and Freeman, because using the steps of “wherein the repository subsystem is external to each of the source subsystem and the target subsystem . . . data between the repository subsystem . . .”, would have given those skilled in the art the tools to externally coordinate the communications between various repository and source subsystems. This decreases the processing time of data between the source and target subsystems. Bowman-Amuah does not explicitly teach “wherein the target subsystem is external to the source subsystem . . . wherein the repository subsystem is operable to queue the write statement issued by the source subsystem and deliver the write statement to the target subsystem.” Ambrose et al. teaches “wherein the target subsystem is external to the source subsystem . . . wherein the repository subsystem is operable to queue the write statement issued by the source subsystem and deliver the write statement to the target subsystem” (see paragraph [0185], [0291], and [0463]). It would have been obvious at the time of the invention for one of ordinary skill in the art to have combined the teachings of Bowman and Ambrose, because using the steps “wherein the target subsystem is external to the source subsystem . . . wherein the repository subsystem is operable to queue the write statement issued by the source subsystem and deliver the write statement to the target subsystem” would have given those skilled in the art the ability to temporary store write statements for subsequent transmission, to various repository systems, wherein the systems are separated and distinct. This gives users the advantage of processing and manipulating replicated data, in independent source, for data transmission purposes, faster.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 6/2/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

- As per applicant's arguments regarding "Ambrose describe a server that is a 'middle tier,' there is no indication that the server of Ambrose is operable to queue a write statement issued by a source . . .", examiner maintains that Ambrose's teachings of a "middle tier", which has the ability to contain software that allow for the ability to queue a write statement as illustrated in applicant's claim language.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

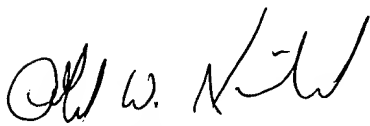

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
